

BROOMWOOD HALL GAP OPPORTUNITY

Are you considering taking a year off between school and university? If so, Broomwood Hall in London may be just the place for you. Since 2003 students from Canberra have been going to Broomwood Hall to work as teachers' assistants. In early January 2010, twelve boys and girls from Canberra jetted off to London to start their adventure.

Broomwood Hall is a preparatory day school located in Clapham in Central London. The school is spread over 4 campuses and caters for students aged from 3 years to 14 years. Gap students are employed on contract for 12 months as Teachers' Assistants to work with the younger children aged 3 – 8 years. As the School does not have boarding facilities, the students usually stay with local families paying a nominal amount per week in board.
