The Prime Minister's Australian Youth Forum (AYF) Challenge

The Hon Kate Ellis MP, Minister for Early Childhood Education, Child Care and Youth has opened a new national initiative, the Prime Minister's Australian Youth Forum Challenge.

The PM's AYF Challenge is an annual initiative that aims to stimulate fresh ideas about how young people can connect with their communities.

If you're 12-24 and you have an innovative idea which you think will encourage other young people to engage in their community, actively address local needs and promote a positive image of young people, why not consider submitting a project entry?

Winners will be eligible for up to $15 000 to put their ideas into action. The winning ideas will be documented on the AYF website.

The PM's AYF Challenge closes 5.00pm AEST Tuesday 11 May 2010.

More information can be found on the AYF website at <http://www.youth.gov.au/ayf/>.

Green Careers - Make a Difference

With concerns for the environment bringing a greater awareness and the introduction of many new environmental regulations, there's no doubt that the colour of the future is green. More and more jobs will be created to help people adapt to these changes and a whole new industry is opening up, so if you want to be a part of the green revolution, read on.

Green careers contribute to a more sustainable world. They can include a wide variety of jobs and occur in most industry sectors. Examples of green occupations include park ranger or ecologist. However, green jobs exist in almost any career field or industry. There are green jobs at all education and skill levels.

There are emerging industries that support environmentally friendly products, services and technologies. Solar and wind power technologies, hybrid cars and aquaculture are some examples. Electricians and plumbers, however, can work with both traditional energy sources and with solar energy. Construction workers can also work on energy-efficient designs.

Green jobs are not all scientific, technical or practical. New green companies need accountants, human resource staff, receptionists, sales people and others. Existing companies are adopting new technologies and work practices to become green.

Australian Defence Force Gap Year

Gap Year is an Australian Defence Force \(ADF\) program for students or recent school leavers. Individual programs run across Navy, Army and Air Force and are designed to give you detailed insight into how the ADF operates. Think of it as a once in a lifetime work experience placement in the ADF.

- You will also gain invaluable life skills and job training that is just as valuable in the civilian world as in the ADF.
- You'll earn more than $40,000 per year and there's no requirement to stay beyond this point.

Am I guaranteed a GAP Year placement?

No. There is a selection process for Gap Year and a limited number of placements are available each year. Due to the popularity of Gap Year, applicants will be directed to complete a full application online. During this application we will ask you a range of questions to determine your eligibility, suitability and to determine what sort of Gap Year roles may suit you. Selected candidates will be contacted and proceed into a more detailed and face-to-face recruitment process. If you are not selected you may apply for another ADF role, or you may wait to see if a second round offer is made. Candidates selected to proceed will go through the normal Defence recruitment process, details of this are at recruitment centre. Applicants are then allocated placement based upon successful assessment and readiness to join. Navy candidates will be considered for Officer and General Entry roles, while Army will be considered for General Entry roles only. Air Force is open to Officer Entry roles only.

What do I learn?

During basic training you'll be introduced to a variety of military equipment, learn general service skills, eat the same food and use similar recreational facilities as our regular ADF members. You'll have access to new and emerging technologies and learn how to become self-reliant.

Applications

The website contains further information about the program, it is important to read it carefully. Gap Year applications will reopen from 1 May to 30 June 2010 for the 2011 intake. Applications must be received online. Visit the website below from 1 May to start the application process.
